LOS ANGELES, February 20, 2013 – Two-time Emmy Award winner Eric Stonestreet (Modern Family, Identity Thief) and the Geffen Playhouse Story Pirates will present an exclusive one-hour afternoon performance of kids stories perfect for the whole family. Stories from the Pirates’ innovative in-school Play/Write Program will be selected and performed live to fans of the two-time Emmy Award winner and the Pirates who have previously produced dozens of events in the Geffen’s Theater for Families seasons. The music and comedy-filled afternoon will begin with youth activities and snacks available to all ticket holders one hour prior to the performance in the UCLA Chancellors’ Lobby.

This event comes after a slew of sell-out performances of the Pirates’ Flagship Show and last year’s wildly successful family fundraiser Story Pirates and Friends. J.P. Morgan will once again return as the full underwriter of the event - ensuring all proceeds directly support the Geffen’s education and outreach programs.

While many children’s theater troupes tell stories to kids, the Geffen Playhouse Story Pirates believe that every story has a child to tell. The process begins by collecting stories from local kids – and whether it’s a world where cats can fly or a rock opera about fuzzy alien tickle monsters, the Pirates will turn any short story into a hilarious musical event! Described as “Monty Python meets Schoolhouse Rock,” and pitched perfectly to grownups and kids alike, Story Pirates set sail with your whole family on board.

The Geffen Playhouse began its Story Pirates partnership in 2009 as a way to expand the resources of the theater’s current in-school initiatives. Story Pirates, originally founded in New York in 2003, works to engage student in under-resourced public schools by showing them that their ideas, their words and their stories are important. As such, the cornerstone of the company is the in-school Play/Write Program, a series of creative writing and drama workshops that lead to a musical sketch comedy show performed by professional actors and comedians and comprised entirely of stories written by kids. As a partner of the Geffen Playhouse, Story Pirates recently opened a West Coast brand and now performs for the general public as part of the Geffen Playhouse’s Theater for Families season.
